Showcasing the Humanities

“The Innovative Spanish Enlightenment”

Dr. Scott Dale, Associate Professor of Spanish
Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures

Spanish literature and culture of the 18th-century is still notoriously underrepresented in higher education in Spain and beyond its borders. Among the literary, artistic, and cultural movements of Spain, the period between 1680 and 1800 is one of the most overlooked, misinterpreted and poorly studied. Once referred to as the “Forgotten Century,” a new generation of dieciochistas is shedding new light on the literary innovations, artistic accomplishments, and modernity of 18th-century Spanish culture. Unearthing and illuminating these cultural artefacts can help us better understand the innovative cultural contributions of the Spanish Enlightenment.

The Showcasing the Humanities Lecture Series

The Showcasing the Humanities lecture series aims to present the work of humanities experts from Marquette University. The lectures will be from a faculty representing the Departments of Philosophy, Theology, and Languages, Literatures, and Cultures. The lectures are meant to be accessible for a general audience, and they aim to engage the greater Milwaukee community.
