Students in their 3-6th semester have a 15-minute presentation followed by a 5-minute question period. Students beyond their 6th semester will have a 20-minute presentation followed by a 5-minute question period (similar to conference proceedings). Graduate student seminars are part of BIOL6952, and are mandatory. If presenters have committee members who will be participating remotely, the graduate student will be responsible for hosting the online meeting. The Biological Sciences Department Graduate Handbook has more information regarding the requirements and format of the graduate student seminar program. It is recommended that graduate students schedule their annual advisory committee meeting immediately following the seminar.
